FOR THE QUAY CAMPAIGN STABLE. An Early Adjournment of the Legislature Among the Possibilities.

interest among possibilities. Several persons are already spoken of, among them Major Montooth, Secretary Stone and Senator Delamater. Montooth is said to be almost as popular in Philadelphia as he is in Allegheny county, and it may be a case of both ends of the State against the middle. For State Treasurer, Speaker Boyer seems to number close upon 100, and there are 67 have the call with Henry Hall of Mercer, counties in Pennsylvania. Listen to what have the call, with Henry Hall, of Mercer, & good second.

FROM A STAFF CORRESPONDENT HARRISBURG, January 27 .- Not until after the people vote on the vexed question know just who are to be the party candidates in the approaching contests. The first thing to be considered is the State Treasurership. So far as the party leaders are concerned, Senator Rutan might have the place, and it is fair to say that considerable pres-sure has been brought to bear upon him. He might have, also, almost any Federal appointment he might choose, say his immediate friends. "But" said one of these, "he doesn't want either the Treasurership or a place under General Harrison."

What, then, are his plaus?"
I cannot answer with authority, but I think he prefers another term in the State Senate. The Senator elected from his district will have a vote for two United States Senators, and a man of Rutan's ability and political sagacity can have much influence on his fellow members when these events

SPEAKER BOYER FOR TREASURER. "ItRutan doesn't want the nomination for State Treasurer, who do you think is likely to be named for the place?"

"Speaker Boyer is considered very favorin the East. He is very popular in the House, too, where the ability with which he presides and his impartiality are gen-erally recognized. In the West I know of no better or stronger man for the place than Henry Hall, of Mercer, whose ability has been proven both on the floor of the House, in the missionary work of the late cam-paign and in the Judiciary General Committee, of which he is Chairman. He is popular, too, because, while a good party man, he is generally recognized as no man's Either of these gentlemen would have the confidence of the party "

Senator Rutan, on his return from Washington, started in on his accumulated corredence, in his usual determined manner, and by attempting to do two days work in one was unable on Thursday to be in his place in the Senate. The vacation of that body, however, gave him an opportunity to clear his desk and be ready for next Tuesday night's session. His physician threatens, unless he moderates his zeal, to put him under lock and key for a time.

FOR GOVERNOR. The Gubernatorial matter is one that has been agitated more than the State Treasurership, but nothing definite, it is said, will be determined on concerning it until the prohibition question is out of the way. With that disposed of for five years Mr. Quay feels that he can go ahead to strengthen his posi-tion, and the Gubernatorial question will then receive more than passing attention. None of the State officials save Secretary Stone can be considered in the race, and he is not pushing himsel. But he has friends mirers of his abilities. The fact that Crawford county is so near Warren, and that both are in the same general division of the State as Allegheny complicates the situation so far as the interests of Western Pennsylvania are concerned. Senator Delamater in the first and Major Montooth in the second, dividing the West with the Secretary of the Commonwealth, may give the East a chance to run in a man of its own, unless Mr. Quay can mold East-ern opinion to his own will. Were not all three Western candidates strong men the situation would be less interesting. Senator Delamater has learned important lessons in no ordinary school of politics, and he has learned them well. His influence among the legislators is great, and though it has largely grown out of the knowledge of his intimate relations with Quay, his personal qualities have clinched it as only such qualities can.

MONTOOTH'S POPULARITY. Major Montooth probably introduces a greater element of uncertainty into the cam-paign than any other candidate yet named. It this is true of his candidacy in the West it is none the less true that he is likely to be a decidedly disturbing element in the East. The Philadelphia men speak highly of him and profess warm admiration for him. Both in the Quaker city and through the State he made friends right and le t in his last campaign. H has kept up the acquaintance-ships and friendships then formed and has ships and friendships then formed and has extended them. He is openly and avowed-are hundreds of thousands of gallons of ly a candidate and is running his own campaign. He is not looking to Mr. Quay or of the fact to inquiring friends that he was in the race to stay until the finish. Major Montooth's aspirations were mentioned to him, he spoke in warm praise of the Pittsburg candidate. It is not impossible that the elements of opposition to Senator Quay's leadership, remembering how the Pittsburg candidate. It is not impossible that the elements of opposition to Senator Quay's leadership, remembering how the Pittsburg candidate. It is not impossible to the property of the pr Quay slate once before, may take advantage of his popularity both East and West to In Armstrong county the Constitutional unite on him in one more grand effort to relegate the Beaver statesman to the rear. But it is recognized to be a fact that his eyes are dent, and in 1888 this had decreased to 193 wide open and that he keeps well advised of all that is going on. It is not the the time

WILL ADJOURN IN APRIL An important political consideration at the present time is the length of the legis-lative session. In the first days of legislative work, while the Speaker was studying the composition of the House committees, and for some time thereafter, the impression prevailed that the Legislature would not leave Harrisburg before the 1st of June. Governor Beaver inclined to this view, as did party leaders in both houses. Auditor General McCamant was one conspicuous exception. The bright business man sent here from the northern oil fields, it was also noticeable, could see no necessity for a long session. And the session will probably not be one of extraordinary The Republican leaders have been putting their heads together and have re-solved among themselves that the party's large majority demands adjournment at the earliest possible moment, lest some blunder the Legislature may determine to attend the inauguration and the Washington centennial in New York, on April 30, at the State's expense, the date may be fixed nearer the end of the month. The leaders have made to their mind that there shall not be required to the state of the state's expense. have made up their minds that there shall be no mistakes if they can head them off, and one way to do this, they think, is to curtail the time of the session. That was a thrilling scene in the House that afternoon, as well remembered by the writer. Cheer upon cheer arose from the galleries, and pushing his way through the crowded lobby a page laid upon Representa-tive Glenn's desk a huge bank-work of flowers from Philadelphia, bought and pre-sented to him by the Women's Christian Temperance Union of Pennsylvania, the The race for Governor is already exciting waving perfumed handkerchiefs from the

ITS RESULTS NOW.

Four years have passed, and what are the results? I have purposely kept a memorandum of the votes in only the seven counties in which I have thus far been, which will be cast for Constitutional amendment as a direct result of the operations of the physi-ology and hygiene educational law. They I was told by a gentleman in one of the southern counties, whose reputation for pro-found business knowledge, and very liberal views on the liquor question, would have made it impossible tor me to believe that his vote could be swayed by a matter of sentiof prohibition will the Republican leaders ment, had I not heard him tell it myself.
know just who are to be the party candi"Up to a week ago," he said, "I had supposed I would vote against the amendment when it came up at the election. It seemed to me impracticable, in the first place, be-cause liquor States will still surround Pennsylvania in the future. Then I could not justify myself, I thought, in aiding in the destruction of a vast property which our laws have built up without compensating the losers. Now I am influenced by neither of these objections and I shall vote for the amendment, "What changed my views? continued the lawyer, "Well I am not ashamed to confess it, for the tally sheets in June will show scientiously taught in your great city schools, but I do know that throughout the country districts, the teachers enjoy teaching it and the pupils love it.

A LITTLE APOSTLE. "I have a little tot of a daughter who reads what her teacher writes every morning on the blackboard about the organs, systems and bones of the human body, and she memorizes carefully all she is told in the oral lessons about the effects of whisky, tobacco and intemperate diets upon these or-gans and systems. She will come home, and sitting on my knee for hours, will tell me with the amusing earnestness and wisdom of a doctress the evil results of liquors on the human body. It's amusing, of course, but when she wound these little scientific lectures up three or four times with these words: 'And papa, dear, you'r goin' to vote against whisky sellers, so's brother Willy will never be killed by them when he grows up to be a big man!"—when I hear that from lips I love, do you suppose I'm going to refuse the sweet request? The teachers are now telling all iren to plead with their fathers for votes. Are there not thousands of fathers in Pennsylvania who love their little ones too well to refuse so trifling a desire?

WORKINGMEN FOR PROHIBITION. Mr. Glenn is now connected with the State Department of Education, at Harrisburg, and although his home is still in this county—at Putnevville—I was of course unable to see him for his idea of what might be termed, by some, as scientific results rather than sentamentalism.

Local option was carried in Armstrong county by 1,200 majority, and Constitu-tional amendment will have 1,500 votes to spare. This shows a gain in temperance sentiment. Against applications for licenses under the Brooks law remonstrances were presented to Judge Neal at one term of court signed by 12,000 persons. Judge buildings, and with the $2,000,000 the Neal, by the way, who has steadily refused licenses under the Brooks law, was one of two lawyers who, 12 or 14 years ago, refused to present in court the application of even their best clients for liquor license. Now at least one-half of the attorneys in Arm-strong county could not be hired at any price to do it. That shows the progress of the anti-liquor feeling in the county.

There is no party feeling in the situation here. Democrats and Republicans are alike in the support of the issue. Democracy is strongest in the towns of Leechburg, Apollo. Freeport and surrounding townships. Singularly enough each of those three towns is governed by local prohibitory laws passed under the old constitution, and significantly enough it is generally believed that each of the three towns will give a whisky vote because of the restraints of years. Such a vote, however, will not injure the general result in the county. Armstrong is a manu-facturing county, but at her iron works in Kittanning, Leechburg and Apollo Ameri-can workingmen predominate, and will save the reputation of industry by siding with temperance.

A DISTILLERY TOO. Guckenheimer's distillery is located at Freeport, but only a few farmers who sell it grain and hogs will be influenced in their views by that fact. It has always been looked upon as a Pittsburg industry, the distillery's business being transacted in that whisky.

Although Kittanning is a temperance anyone else to further his interests.

When Major Montooth was here recently, before the Pardon Board, he made no secret of the fact to inquiring friends that he burg every morning on the Allecheny Valley Railroad, coming back in the evening When Mr. Magee was here last week and Major Montooth's aspirations were mentioned to him, he spoke in warm praise of sion. IN A POLITICAL WAY.

Hon. S. M. Meredith, who introduced the prohibitory amendment in the Senate in 1887, was interviewed to-day. He said: I put the majority for the amendment at not less than 1,500. During the past year I have been over nearly the entire county and made it my business to inquire among the people of this matter, and I found a very strong senti this matter, and I found a very strong sentiment with the voters of both parties in favor of the amendment. We have had no saloon interest in the county since the adoption of local option. Before that there was a strong liquor feeling. That all disappeared, and since that law was adopted the temperance sentiment has been steadily growing. It will thus make the present majority larger than that given for local option. Business men as well as farmers seem to be equally in favor of a trial of this character. Business men generally are not afraid of the pecuniary results which may follow the voting for prohibition. While I think that the total vote will not be as larte as last fall, it will not be as light as some persons appear to think. The temperance people are thoroughly aroused, and will can was every school district.

J. W. King, Esq., Chairman of the Demo-

In harmony with this sentiment, a resolution will probably be introduced this week to adjourn the Legislature by the middle of April.

Perhaps in consideration of the fact that the Legislature way determine to attend the Legislature way determine to attend the bility of a light water among the formula of the Demo-cratic County Committee, has no doubt that the amendment will be adopted by Armstrong, but he puts the majority at a lower figure than others, not any more than 500.

The reason of this, he thinks, is the probability of a light water among the formula of the Demo-cratic County Committee, has no doubt that the amendment will be adopted by Armstrong, but he puts the majority at a lower figure than others, not appear to the county Committee, has no doubt that the amendment will be adopted by Armstrong, but he puts the majority at a lower figure than others, not appear to the county Committee, has no doubt that the amendment will be adopted by Armstrong, but he puts the majority at a lower figure than others, not appear to the first than the amendment will be adopted by Armstrong, but he puts the majority at a lower figure than others, not appear to the first than the amendment will be adopted by Armstrong, but he puts the majority at a lower figure than others, not appear to the first than the majority at a lower figure than others, not appear to the first than the majority at a lower figure than others, not appear to the first than the majority at a lower figure than others, not appear to the first than the majority at a lower figure than others, not appear to the majority at a lower figure than others, not appear to the first than the majority at a lower figure than others.

amendment issue will win in Armstrong with 1,400 majority. He says the temperance sentiment has been on the increase ever since the local option law was adopted here. He knows of as many Democrats as Republicans who will vote for the measure.

STILL ANOTHER VIEW. J. P. Coulter, Esq., is one of the oldest attorneys at the bar of Armstrong county. He is a Democrat, but a most thorough tem-perance man. He said in reply to questions:

Remembering that this county voted for local option, and believing that a wholesome effect has come from the refusal of licenses under the Brooks law, I should think that the Constitutional amendment will be adopted here. It will be pretty much in Armstrong county as in other sections of the State; the entire clergy will take the field as speakers for the issue, and every township will be thoroughly covered. That means remarkable agitation. On the other hand the liquor interests will hardly select the same line of work. No speakers will go through townships and harangue the farmers to vote for whisky. The same spirit could not enter into their work so heartily as into the other side, nor would it reach the hearts of the masses of the people as quickly as an appeal for sobriety and freedom from drink.

Another gentleman, who did not want

Another gentleman, who did not want his name used, with a pencil and paper demonstrated that 70 per cent of the Repub-licans and 50 per cent of the Democrats in Armstrong would vote for the amendment. He was glad the third party Prohibitionists were not strong in the county, for he be-lieved if any one cause will operate against the success of the measure in Pennsylvania it will be a too ardent claim to the ownership of the amendment movement by that faction of the temperance people. In his opinion third party Prohibitionists should draw in their horns and let the Constitutional Amendment Association of Pennsylvania manage the campaign. That associa-tion, he contended, is absolutely free of partisan feeling, and has not incurred the displeasure of either Democrats or Repub-licans. L. E. STOFIEL.

DECIDEDLY ORIGINAL GIRLS.

Chief Justice Fuller's Daughters Almos Unique in Their Eccentricity.

(SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.) WASHINGTON, January 27 .- The "Fuller girls," as the Chief Justice's daughters are termed, are in demand as assistants at rethousands of voters just like me. You know they teach physiology and hygiene in the public schools now. I don't know anything about whether it is faithfully and consails for Europe next week to continue the ceptions. Their originality has taken hold sails for Europe next week to continue the study of music, is original to the verge of eccentricity. She is a vivacious brunette, and clever. Her gowns are astonishing creations, and are all of the extreme empire fashions. It is said she will buy the material in the morning, make the gown in the afternoon, and wear it in the evening. Whenever she and wear it in the evening. Whenever she appears in evening or afternoon toilet she presents the striking, and, it must be confessed, startling figure of any young woman outgrowing her clothes. Her gown is very scant and clinging in the skirts, and the waist is quite up under the arms. Above the arms it is very low neek so there is the arms it is very low neck, so there is scarcely any waist at all.

At Mrs. Carlisle's Wednesday afternoon reception Miss Fuller was one of the several assistants. She would have delighted an artist who wished to paint-well, a beauty of the Josephine period. Though not strictly beautiful, the effect was that of a picture of the "first empire" age. The visitors were not artists, however, and they simply gazed at the eccentric daughter of the Chief Justice as a curiosity. Miss Fuller's self-possession was supreme. She sat under the full blaze of gaslight with graceful unconciousness of being stared at. The really beautiful dark eyes showed no annoyance, the bright color in the cheeks didn't change, and altogether the young woman was apparently well satisfied to be the "star" upon which all were gazing.

GOOD USE OF HIS MILLIONS.

A Wealthy Old Man Gives $2,500,000 t Endow a Manual Training School.

[SPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.] BALTIMORE, January 27 .- Jacob Tome the millionaire banker, has increased his gift of $500,000 for the founding of a manual training school to $2,500,000. Half a million school is to be endowed. It will be located in Fort Deposit, Cecil county, and, if Mr. Tome's ideas are carried out, most complete institution of its kind in the world.

Mr. Tome says he had to work himself up in the world, and he knows of the diffi-culties under which the people have to-labor. To give the poor girls and boys a chance he proposes to give the former a mechanical education, and to teach the girls sewing, cooking, stenography, tele-graphy and any other handiwork they may wish to learn. Mr. Tome is 89 years of age, and he hopes that he may live long enough to see his work successfully garried

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE A FAILURE.

A Couple of Its Apostles in Danger of Being Tarred and Feathered. ISPECIAL TELEGRAM TO THE DISPATCH.

PIERRE, DAR., January 27.-M. A. Elliott and Mrs. M. C. Campbell, two apostles of Christian science, or the faith cure, recently came to Pierre and started a class to teach the science. An infant, the son of W. G. Nixon, died yesterday morning, having had no treatment but that of the two scientists and their alleged cure. For two days they have been attempting the child's resurrection from the dead. To-day the population found out the facts and an inlignation meeting was held and the parties notified that they must make themselves scarce or suffer the consequences.

To-night excitement runs high and talk of tar and feathers or worse is freely indulged in. An inquest will be held over the babe. Mr. Nixon, the father, is a prominent banker here, and his wife a daughter of Bishop Andrews, of Washington.

Will Likely Become a Law. Coroner McDowell returned from Harrisburg last evening, where he had been looking after the interests of the morgue bill. He said the measure is being favorably re-

RAILWAY RATE

Views of the Inter-State Commerce Com mission on the Best Way to Prevent Violations of the Law in the Future. WASHINGTON, January 27 .- The Inter State Commerce Commission has promulgated an opinion on the subject of passenger tariffs and rate wars, prepared by Chairman Cooley. The paper narrates the facts attending the war in passenger rates at St. Louis in October, and also the circumstances of the passenger rate war which prevailed in Chicago in December, both of which were investigated by the commission. In the St. Louis case east-bound limited fares were reduced by all the lines from about $22 to from $6 50 to $10. It is found that the provisions of the act to regulate commerce were not complied with, and that the reductions in the manner in which they were made were not only illegal, but were unwise and injurious to the carriers who took part in the warfare, as well as to the

The Chicago rate war extended over th lines running to St. Paul, Minneapolis, Kansas City and St. Louis. Its character-istic feature was the fact that tickets were placed in the hands of brokers or scalpers o be sold at rates below the tariff rates, and that the road excused themselves for their dealings with brokers by claiming the right to pay commissions at will. The business of the ticket brokers was investigated and many facts are stated. The act to regulate commerce forbids discriminations between passengers, and forbids the sale of tickets at a greater or less rate than the established schedule. Violation of law in many respects is pointed out. The commission recommends that the inter-State commerce act be so amended as: First-To define what shall be considered ex-

Second—To prohibit all payment of commissions on the sale of tickets and all sale of tickets, for inter-State business except by the regular agents of the carriers.

Third—To require the carriers to provide for Previous recommendations in respect to
